ANITA G. DAVID, Ed.D.
President IV
Pampanga State Agricultural University

Subject: Request for Sponsorship and Issuance of Office Order – 47th Annual National Convention of the Philippine College of Occupational Medicine, Inc.

Dear Dr. David.

Greetings of peace and well-being!

Respectfully, I would like to request approval for sponsorship and the issuance of an Office Order authorizing my attendance at the 47th Annual National Convention of the Philippine College of Occupational Medicine, Inc. (PCOM) with the theme "Occupational Medicine: Connecting People, Policy, and Platforms," to be held on March 19–21, 2026 at The Manila Hotel, Manila.

This convention provides 50 Continuing Medical Education (CME) Units and 19 PRC Continuing Professional Development (CPD) Units. The scientific sessions will focus on updated occupational health policies, regulatory compliance, digital health platforms, workplace disease prevention, and institutional occupational safety governance.

As a State University, Pampanga State Agricultural University under the law is mandated to comply with Republic Act No. 11058 (Occupational Safety and Health Standards Law) and its Implementing Rules and Regulations under DOLE Department Order No. 198-18. These issuances require all employers, including educational institutions, to provide a safe and healthful workplace and to engage qualified Occupational Health Personnel commensurate with workforce size and risk classification.

Prior my employment in our esteemed institution, I have already secured certification regarding this matter. Moreover, under DOLE Department Order No. 16-01 and related guidelines, a Company/Occupational Physician must be properly trained in Basic Occupational Medicine (BCOM). In this regard, it is imperative that the University Physician serving as Medical Officer III is likewise BCOM-certified to ensure regulatory compliance and proper implementation of the University's Occupational Safety and Health Program (OSHP).

Having a BCOM-certified Occupational Health Physician in PSAU ensures the following institutional benefits:

1. Full compliance with DOLE Occupational Safety and Health standards;
2. Proper medical surveillance for employees and students exposed to laboratory, agricultural, veterinary, engineering, and field-related hazards;
3. Strengthened implementation of workplace health programs (Drug-Free Workplace, Mental Health Program, TB/HIV/Hepatitis B policies, and other mandated workplace health programs);
4. Effective management of work-related injuries, illnesses, and occupational exposure incidents;
5. Reduced legal and administrative risks due to non-compliance with labor and OSH regulations;
6. Enhanced institutional preparedness for emergencies, outbreaks, and disaster response;
7. Promotion of a culture of safety, health, and productivity within the University community.

In view of the foregoing, may I respectfully request:

1. Approval of registration fee sponsorship (as applicable category under PCOM rates);

2. Issuance of an official Office Order authorizing attendance on official time from March 19–21, 2026;
3. Authority to charge registration, travel expenses, accommodation, and incidental expenses to appropriate University funds, subject to government accounting and auditing rules and regulations.

Upon return, a post-convention report and echo seminar will be conducted to cascade relevant updates and strengthen PSAU's Occupational Safety and Health policies and programs.

Thank you very much for your favorable consideration in support of strengthening PSAU's institutional health and safety compliance.

Respectfully yours,

MARIENOLD DENIECE A. FABIAN-HALOG, MD.
